

Quality Management System Resources

Quality Management System (QMS) resources

You can find a link here to the Healthcare Improvement Scotland (HIS) QMS website which hosts information about QMS and links to related programmes and resources.

This webpage will give you the background to the 90 day cycle which helped to develop the draft QMS framework. The 90 day cycle explored the question: What needs to be in place to ensure an effective approach to quality management across health and social care in Scotland? There are links to the literature review which supported the work, and also guidance as to what quality management activities you would expect to have at Board level.

The paper 'Moving from Quality Improvement to Quality Management' written by Ruth Glassborow (former Director of Improvement at HIS, now Director of Place and Wellbeing at Public Health Scotland) is hosted on the QMS website. This paper highlights the importance of an organisational approach that goes beyond quality improvement to one which is inclusive of all the key components of quality management to ensure reliable delivery of high quality care.

Further information on our Learning Systems can be found here.

Q Community webinars

The Q Community organised a series of webinars around embedding QMS. These have all been recorded and you can find them at the links below.

- QMS: “Everybody’s Business” – Quality management at an organisational level
- QMS: “Putting the man on the moon” – aligning everyone to strategy
- QMS: ‘Work as done vs work as imagined’ – making quality management a daily reality
- QMS: “Leading for Quality” – how do we lead where we are and bring people with us?